

12/9 Comparative Study - describe & provide examples	12/10 Comparative Study - research & support	12/11	12/12 Comparative Study - intro & estb.	12/13 Quiz (cine., sound, edit.) Comparative Study - continue finding examples and research to support your examples & info on director/filmmakers
12/16 Comparative Study - finish example & research gathering - and plan presentation (sketch organization of tri-fold, plan narration of video)	12/17 Comparative Study - put together presentation - last class work day	12/18	12/19 Next film project - decide and plan	12/20 Comparative Study Due Next film project - plan

Testing in IB Film (or making a video essay)? → Over the weekend, it is strongly recommended that you find the specific clips that you are using as examples. And be sure you can access the clips or the movie as a whole on the Monday and Tuesday work days.

ALL → If you do NOT have at least 4 strong points of comparisons (the sub-topics, parts II and III on the assignment sheet you have been working with) AND specific examples from both films by the end of today, I strongly suggest you work on this assignment over the weekend so that by class on Monday, you have at least four points of comparison.

Think you'll need more time? A few notes...

→ First, figure out what days/nights you can work on this before the due date – plan now and put it on your calendar now!

→ Sign up for Flex time Tuesday and/or Wednesday with me (I am in the library – there are computers and lots of table space)

→ If you are making a video essay, the due date is 12/20, but if you choose to – you may work on it over break and turn it in by the start of class on Monday, January 6.

Last note, re: video essay viewing assignment due Sunday. If you do not have time to complete this by Sunday @9pm, you can turn it in any time before the end of next week. While it would help you think about your Comparative Study (and thus the due date before you finish that), it will help you with filmmaking/thinking about films in general - so don't stress about finishing it by Sunday, but fit it in the near future.